Alex. N. Washburn1st Martin Here
Sets State Record;
96 Years for Gibson

C. H. Wilson of Fulton sent me the following postcard this morning:

"A purple martin was on Herb Cox's martin-box at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 26. Both Herb and I saw him. It was a male.
"Pretty early, I think."

Early indeed—in fact, it is a new record for the martin's arrival in Arkansas. The same C. H. Wilson of Fulton was credited by the Arkansas Audubon Society with the previous earliest sighting in the state, Feb. 8, 1970. The Associated Press Little Rock bureau is carrying the Wilson report on today's day wire.

Ninety-six years is a record existence for Hope businesses—and it ends this Saturday, Jan. 30, when the John S. Gibson Drug Store on S. Elm St. shuts its doors.

The store was founded by John S. Gibson in 1875, two years after the construction of the Cairo & Fulton railroad (now Missouri Pacific) which created Hope, 1875 also being the year the town incorporated.

Two years ago the store was bought from Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson by Doug Haynie. Mr. Haynie put up a new building at Sixth & Main Sts. last year, named it Deanna Drug Store—and this Saturday he will close out the Gibson location and merge its business with the Deanna store.

Firm Wanted to Quit Buying
F111 Parts

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—John T. Bailey of Fort Worth, Tex., former manager of vendor quality assurance for General Dynamics Corp., testified Wednesday in U.S. District Court here that he had wanted to cease purchasing parts for the F111 fighter-bomber from Selb Manufacturing Co. of Walnut Ridge in November of 1968 when the first defective parts were discovered.

General Dynamics, prime contractor for the F111, did not curtail purchases from Selb and its affiliates until the summer of 1969. Bailey was the 26th witness to testify in the trial of James L. Townley of Hurst, Tex., a former General Dynamics quality assurance supervisor, who is charged with conspiring to conceal defective parts made by Selb for the F111.

Bailey testified that in November 1968 he recommended that purchases from Selb be stopped, but officials in the General Dynamics production department said they would try to work out the quality problems with Selb instead.

William C. Wade, a former quality control inspector for General Dynamics testified Wednesday that he was instructed by Townley to destroy discrepancy reports on 16 parts manufactured by the Arkansas firm.

Wade also said that during a visit to the Selb plant he found parts which contained unauthorized weldings hidden in the ladies rest room.

Connally May Face Fraud
Questions

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—John B. Connally may face questions today about a Texas stock-fraud case involving many of his political friends—but his nomination as Treasury secretary appears a certain winner in the Senate Finance Committee.

Most members of the panel, which must pass on the nomination before it goes to the Senate floor, say they know little about the Texas controversy.

Others doubted Wednesday Connally would be implicated by Security and Exchange Commission charges of stock fraud filed against a number of Texas companies and individuals, including Waggoner Carr who was state attorney general when

Arsenal to
Be Research Center

WASHINGTON (AP)—Biological warfare facilities at the Pine Bluff Arsenal in Arkansas will be turned into a national research center on the harmful effects of chemicals on man, President Nixon says.

The President announced Wednesday the new center, known as the National Center for Toxicological Research, will be operated by the Food and Drug Administration. The FDA will begin occupying the facilities as the Army moves out, he said.

Destruction of germ warfare agents will require at least a year but the laboratories and biological production facilities are expected to be vacated by June 30, 1973, the President said.

The center will study effects of pesticides, food additives and therapeutic drugs on man. Data from the research are to be used to help the FDA establish regulations for drugs, food additives and other consumer products.

Nixon announced last year the United States was getting out of the germ warfare business and would confine research on such agents to defensive purposes only.

'Sock It To Me' Gal
Has Launched a New Phase of Her Career

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time in a country called America a pretty little girl from England earned fame and a wheelbarrow full of cash by exclaiming, "Sock it to me!"—and then letting people throw buckets of water in her face.

Millions of television fans thought the whole unlikely procedure was rib-cracking fun.

The girl was Judy Carne, and the video skit last year was "Laugh-In."

Well, time has marched on—and so has Judy. She has launched an exciting new phase of her career by becoming a star on the nation's supper club circuit. She is presently appearing at the Plaza Hotel's Persian Room.

When I called on Miss Carne recently she was clad in a long, slinky green robe and resting on a bed large enough to provide a courtship space for two dromedaries and a brace of pigeons.

"It's my back that's bothering me," she said cheerfully. "It's just tension. When I get overtired, I have to take muscle relaxants and sit on a heating pad. Everybody has his weak spot—or breaks out in a rash or something."

Judy made it clear she was no disappointed fugitive from tele-

Revenue Sharing Plan
Bypassing Mills Group
Whenever Possible

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House doesn't want anyone—most of all Chairman Wilbur Mills—to think it is deliberately bypassing the House Ways and Means Committee on the President's $16-billion revenue-sharing plan.

Sensitivity on the subject became apparent Wednesday after The Associated Press reported the proposal to share a part of federal revenues with state and local governments will go to the fact remains, however, that division of revenue-sharing legislation was a secret to the public—and apparently to many members of Congress—until it was disclosed Wednesday by John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's domestic policy chief, at a White House news briefing.

Many members of Congress had assumed the entire $16-billion package was destined for the Mills committee.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A federal judge today threw out a grand jury report critical of the Kent State University administration but let stand 25 indictments the jury returned as a result of violence on the campus last May.

U.S. District Court Judge William K. Thomas ordered the report of the special Portage County grand jury to be "physically expunged and destroyed" within 10 days.

His 50-page memorandum ruled against all of the 18-page jury report except for the indictments.

The jury investigation was ordered by former Gov. James A. Rhodes after 13 students were shot, four of them fatally, during a confrontation with National Guardsmen on the campus last May 4.

The jury's report was critical of the Kent State administration and stated that the National Guardsmen on the campus were not liable to criminal prosecution.

Thomas' ruling came in suits brought by students and faculty members of Kent State. They contended the jury report was prejudicial and went beyond powers of a grand jury.

The report contended the university administration had fostered "an attitude of laxity, overindulgence and permissiveness with its students and faculty to the extent that it can no longer regulate the activities of either ..."

view.

"I'm grateful for the sock-it-to-me tag, but I'd like to drop it pretty soon," she said. "I feel there's more to me than that."

There is indeed. Judy, the 31-year-old daughter of a British greengrocer, has been a professional performer since she was 6. She is an adept and agile singer, dancer, comedienne and actress, experienced in the theater, screen and television.

But her moppet face, big brown eyes, staircase haircut and willow-thin figure still make her look like a runaway gamin from elfland. She also has an antic personality that charms audiences, and a vibrant energy both of body and spirit.

"Life to me is how I feel at the moment," she remarked. "Right now it's a trial, but tomorrow it'll be a joy."

I guess my worst fault is probably overemotionalism. It gets me into many scrapes. But I guess it's my chief virtue, too. I have a natural sense of joy in life and in people. I like to know and all kinds of levels."

What is her goal?

"I'd love to do more straight acting," she said. "But most of all I simply want to win the respect of the industry. If you've got that, all the other things fall into place."

Congress in at least seven separate bills—most of them bypassing Mills and his powerful Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler insisted the splitup was intended from the outset and was not occasioned by a Mills House speech Tuesday questioning the heart of the revenue-sharing concept.

The fact remains, however, that division of revenue-sharing legislation was a secret to the public—and apparently to many members of Congress—until it was disclosed Wednesday by John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's domestic policy chief, at a White House news briefing.

Many members of Congress had assumed the entire $16-billion package was destined for the Mills committee.

Senate Confirms 210
Appointments, 32
Were Replacements

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Senate confirmed 210 appointments Wednesday, including 32 who were Gov. Dale Bumpers' replacements for some of the 35 appointments the Senate had rejected moments before.

Bumpers asked the Senate to reject 35 appointments that had been made by former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller before he left office earlier this month.

No action was taken on 16 Rockefeller appointees, including Elijah Coleman of Little Rock, a Negro named by Rockefeller to the Arkansas State University Board of Trustees.

The Senate rejections included Rockefeller's pending appointments to the boards of Arkansas AM&N College, Henderson State College, Southern State College and Arkansas Tech.

Also rejected were Rockefeller appointees on the state Welfare Board, Board of Pardons and Paroles, Racing Commission and State Police Commission.

Bumpers told newsmen after the Senate action that the names submitted for rejection had been developed through mutual agreements between himself and certain senators.

The governor declined to give names of specific senators and individuals opposed by the senators, but he did mention that Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway had endorsed Bill Johnson of Conway for the State College of Arkansas Board of Trustees. Johnson was confirmed by the Senate.

Bumpers said further nomination of SENATE CONFIRMS (on page seven)

Northeast
Numbed by Bitter Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Snow, wind and bitter cold numbed the Northeast today and left a 7,000-square-mile section of Upstate New York shut off from the outside.

The storm was blamed for five deaths and more than 50 injuries as it charged across the northern Midwest Tuesday and into New England Wednesday.

An intense wave of Arctic cold, riding winds of 50 to 80 miles an hour, stung the Deep South with its second hard freeze in little more than a week.

Zero cold extended from the Dakotas through New England. Readings in the low 20s ranged south as far as central Georgia.

All roads in 11 counties of central and western New York were closed to all but emergency traffic as highway crews attempted to clear snow accumulations of a foot or more. Winds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Latin American nations have closed ranks behind Ecuador and against the United States in agreeing to take up an Ecuadorian charge of U.S. coercion in the conflict over American fishing rights.

By a vote of 22 to 0, the hemisphere community convoked a special meeting of the Organization of American States on Ecuador's allegation that the U.S. has been in violation of Article 19 of the OAS charter.

The United States vigorously objected to the charge but abstained in the vote Wednesday night at the Pan American Union.

Within hours of the vote, the American Tuna Boat Association in San Diego reported seizure of three more U.S. fishing vessels off Ecuador's coast. There now have been 17 seizures since Jan. 11.

Ecuador's charge stems from the military sanctions imposed last week by the U.S. after the first four vessels were seized within the 200-mile limit over which the South American nation claims jurisdiction.

Article 19 prohibits use or the encouragement of use of "coercive measures of an economic or political character to force the sovereign will of another state ..."

U.S. Ambassador to the OAS Joseph John Jova rejected the allegation, saying the United States was compelled to impose the sanction under a law aimed at deterring illegal ship seizures. Jova urged the case be taken before the International Court of Justice or the Inter-American Committee on Peaceful Settlements.

1.6 Million to Receive Wage Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 1.6 million workers who are making the minimum wage will receive a hike in their salary Monday.

The Labor Department announced Wednesday the minimum wage will increase from $1.45 to $1.60 per hour Monday when the last step in the 1966 federal minimum wage hikes goes into effect.

The increase chiefly affects workers in smaller retail or service establishments, laundries and dry cleaners, hotels, motels, restaurants, schools, nonfederal hospitals and nursing homes.

Other workers among the total of about 46 million covered by the federal minimum wage previously reached the $1.60 figure. The latest increase affects those workers brought under coverage of the Fair Labor Standards Act for the first time by amendments enacted in 1966.

The minimum wage for agriculture workers on large farms will remain at $1.30 per hour.

Meanwhile, the sources said, the United States is conducting the heaviest bombing campaign of the war in Laos and Cambodia in an effort to force North Vietnam "to make accommodations" and to pave the way for the withdrawal.

The Arkansas Farmers Union Mutual Insurance Company held its regular meeting in Little Rock on January 26 and attending from Hempstead were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McManus and Lester Wade. Bill Ellis received two $25 U.S. Savings bonds for being among the top 10 salesmen in Arkansas.

James H. Pilkinton, Hope attorney and former district judge, has been appointed by Governor Dale Bumpers to the Board of Trustees for Henderson State College, Arkadelphia. Judge Pilkinton was the Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor of Arkansas in 1968. He is an honor graduate of Henderson and was senior member of the Henderson debate team which won the Mid-South title during his college years. Dr. H. T. Luck of Arkadelphia was also appointed to the Henderson board by Bumpers. Dr. Luck headed the liberal Democrats of Arkansas during the Faubus years. Haskell Jones, a member of the Arkansas Welfare Board, was kept on the Board by Mr.

Bumpers. The Governor also appointed Mrs. Beryl Anthony Jr. of El Dorado to the Southern State College Board of Directors. She is the former Shelia Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Foster of Hope.

City Fireman said that Charles Graham had just moved a large house trailer to an area beyond the Hopewell School site and yesterday was in the process of cleaning out and burning surrounding grass and when the blaze was finally brought under control the trailer was heavily damaged on one side and all the insulation on the bottom ruined.

The Proving Ground testing site during World War II continues to haunt the area. Four shells were discovered recently and Deputy Sheriff Howard Milam called the Pine Bluff Arsenal which sent a demolition squad in for examination. Two of the shells were duds but two were very much alive and were exploded by the squad. Anyone seeing a shell should leave it exactly where it is and contact the Sheriff's Office.

New Wave of Protests on Cambodia War

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A new wave of Senate protest may be touched off by Pentagon assessments that the U.S. air war in Cambodia must continue—and perhaps be stepped up.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said in an interview that curbing American airpower could delay U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam.

A more hawkish assessment came from Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, after a secret briefing Wednesday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

If North Vietnamese achieve more military success in Cambodia, said the Mississippi Democrat, "we have to step up our support. Just what turn that would take, I don't know."

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, the only announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, sharply criticized Stennis' remarks.

"It alarms me that any U.S. senator should talk about expanding our military operations in Cambodia," he said. "Very frankly, any senator who talks about sending American forces into Cambodia ought to lead the charge himself."

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who sat in on the Laird briefing, said the secretary's report was optimistic. But Symington said he believes "we have gone further than we understood from the statements of President Nixon on June 30."

Stennis said the war is going well but its end is years away. He suggested Congress may have to reassess its ban on U.S. ground-combat troops in Cambodia "if this thing thickens up."

Stennis said, however, he does not anticipate "any large, new commitment, sending in a great number of ground troops."

In fact, said Adm. Moorer, "The use of our airpower in Cambodia, Laos and South Vietnam is the best way to achieve our objectives in Southeast Asia with minimum casualties."

Limiting U.S. airpower would "stretch out the time required for the South Vietnamese and Cambodians to develop full-scale defenses" and delay Vietnamization of the war, he said.

"We've got to consider the safety of the troops," Moorer said. "Withdrawal must be made in an orderly manner."

Penalty Trial of Manson Is Underway

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The penalty trial of Charles Manson and three women followers convicted in the Sharon Tate murders starts today with a black musician reportedly ready to testify that Manson shot him with a gun similar to one used in the killings.

Bernard Crowe, 28, of Hollywood has said he has a bullet lodged in his back from the alleged shooting incident at his apartment on Aug. 1, 1969, eight days before the Tate killings.

A witness at the Tate trial said he went to the Crowe apartment with Manson and saw him enter carrying a long barreled revolver.

Crowe was the first scheduled witness of 10 the prosecution said it would call in trying to persuade the jury to sentence the four defendants to death in the gas chamber.

They were convicted Monday of murder-conspiracy in the slayings of Miss Tate and six others.

Chief defense attorney Paul Fitzgerald is to present a motion alleging that the death penalty and the penalty trial required by California law are unconstitutional. He will ask that the defendants automatically be sentenced to life imprisonment.

Fitzgerald said Wednesday the penalty trial rules offered the jury no guidelines upon which to base their crucial decision between life and death.

In his motion, Fitzgerald said, "If a civilized society cannot say why one man should be executed and another not, it does not rationally, logically, take a life. Indeed, it grossly denies due process of law in inflicting death upon the basis of a trial that is capricious, discriminatory and guess-infested." He also alleged the death penalty is cruel and unusual punishment which is barred by the U.S. Constitution.

Fitzgerald said he did not expect his client, Patricia Krenwinkel, 23, to take the stand

Blast-Fire Kills One, Injures 48

By LARRY THORSON
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 50-foot wall of flame sparked by explosions swept a half-block section of suburban West Conshohocken Wednesday night. The fire and additional blasts killed a young volunteer fireman, injured 48 other persons and destroyed a dozen homes.

Witnesses said the fire along both sides of Front Street, on the Schuylkill River, was preceded by at least two explosions. Firemen were hampered by icy winds gusting to 36 miles per hour.

More than 100 volunteer firemen battled the flames for more than three hours. After Philadelphia Gas & Electric Co. employees turned off valves on gas lines serving the area the flames flickered and died out.

Most of the homes involved were reduced to rubble.

Robert Ganley, chief of the Bridgeport fire department, said explosions occurred as firemen battled the flames that engulfed the two- and three-story brick row homes.

One blast—apparently from a gas main—gouged a hole in the middle of the street, he said.

It could not be determined how many people occupied the destroyed homes.

Officials said 48 persons were injured and that 46, many of them firemen, were taken to area hospitals for treatment. Fifteen were admitted, including three in critical condition and two in serious condition.

Filibuster Foes Say No Compromise

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of a move to make it easier to choke off Senate filibusters says it's premature to talk of compromise—especially with his side claiming support of most senators.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said talk of compromise at this point would muddy the water and make it more difficult to liberalize the filibuster rule.

Talk of a compromise broke out Wednesday after a caucus of Southern senators who over the years have filibustered successfully against modifying the present rule.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., senior member of the Dixie bloc, told newsmen some type compromise is "possible—very possible."

"We already have more than a majority of the Senate in favor of a three-fifths rule," Church said, claiming 51 senators are sponsoring his proposal to shut off debate with a three-fifths majority of senators voting, instead of the two-thirds margin now required.

However, Church acknowledged the difficulty in getting his plan to a vote since the same two-thirds majority will be required to break a filibuster against it.

Ellender said the Southerners will not decide definitely on their course until after they have done more nose-counting. They will meet again next week.

Ellender said a possible compromise might apply a three-fifths rule to appropriations bills and Senate-House conference reports on other bills while continuing the two-thirds rule with respect to general legislation.

Church called this unacceptable, saying it would have a discriminatory effect. He said the rules should apply equally to all legislation.

One possible compromise Church has mentioned would provide a filibuster could be cut off by a two-thirds majority in the first two or three weeks but by a three-fifths vote thereafter.

Ex-president of Guatemala Found Dead

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Jacobo Arbenz Guzman, the leftist Guatemalan president deposed by rightists with U.S. backing in 1954, was found dead in his bathtub Wednesday. He was 57.

Mexican officials said Arbenz had drowned. There was speculation that he had suffered a heart attack while preparing to take a bath and had fallen into the tub.

Arbenz, the son of a Swiss immigrant and a Guatemalan mother, began his rise to power as a young army colonel in the junta that overthrew dictator Jorge Ubico. He became President Juan Jose Arevalo's defense minister, the springboard for his election to the presidency in 1950.

The U.S. government grew increasingly opposed to Arbenz as he nationalized vast holdings of the United Fruit Co., imported 2,000 tons of arms from Communist Poland and gave known Communists a place in his administration. When a rightist Guatemalan colonel, Carlos Castillo Armas, led an invasion from Honduras in 1954, the United States supplied the arms, and Arbenz was overthrown.

The ex-president went into exile in Mexico and later lived in Europe, Cuba and Uruguay.

tee, said Ehrlichman.

This $5 billion is the segment of the $16-billion packet that Mills most forcefully opposes. While promising Nixon early and thorough hearings, Mills says his aim will be to kill the whole idea, perhaps drawing a substitute.

Ziegler's statement that a splitup of the package was planned from the start finds sympathetic ears among some veteran watchers of the congressional scene. The Nixon strategy makes sense, they say they wonder why he didn't make his intentions clear from the outset.

True revenue-sharing measures, it seems, would have to gain approval from the House Ways and Means Committee. However, Nixon said Friday that $10 billion of the $16-billion total would represent a transfer of restricted federal grants into programs with far fewer Washington-dictated guidelines. Moreover, states, counties and cities would be freed from putting up matching money under the Nixon plan.

To escape the Ways and Means Committee, congressional veterans suggested, Nixon's only alternative was to take $10 billion of present federal grant programs and propose different ground rules for parcelling out the money.

Postal Strike in Britain in 9th Day

By RODNEY PINDER
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The British postal strike went into its ninth day today and, as one newspaper put it, "it's not so funny any longer."

Last week the absence of mail meant chiefly a welcome absence of bills for most Britons. "I've never woken up to so many problem-free mornings," said one suburbanite. "For me, this can go on forever."

But as the postal workers continue their strike for higher pay and the Post Office shows no sign of giving ground, the problems are beginning to loom.

Mail order companies are thinking of laying off employees. Small businesses are threatened with bankruptcy. Greeting card manufacturers and sellers are feeling the pinch. Newspapers already in bad shape are losing even more. The operators of football pools are worried. Automatic telephone equipment, which services 95 per cent of the system, is dangerously overloaded.

The Post Office announced Wednesday that it had lost nearly $10 million in revenue.

Hubert, a German name, means "bright-spirited; bright-souled."

Truman Gains Strength

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman, still hospitalized somewhat against his wishes, "is regaining his strength," Dr. Wallace Graham said.

Graham said his 86-year-old patient, whose ailment has been diagnosed as diverticulitis or irritation in the large intestine, remains in good condition.

Graham said Truman has expressed "an earnest desire to go home" to Independence, Mo., but the doctor did not say when he might do so. Truman entered research hospital last Thursday.

Ant Study Has Changed Mind

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — "Ants aren't all they are reported to be," say Drs. George and Jeanette Wheeler.

The husband-wife researchers have devoted years to studying the creatures, heroes of fables on industriousness.

"Whenever we view an anthill we get the impression of a tremendous amount of activity, but that is merely because there are so many ants and they all look alike," the Wheelers concluded. "The individual ants spend a great deal of time just loafing. And, worse than that, the worker ants, who are all females, spend a lot of time primping."

"Lucy Stoners"
Lucy Stone was born in 1818. Married women who use their maiden names are called "Lucy Stoners" because, though married to Dr. Henry Blackwell, she kept her maiden name in her long fight for women's rights.

Catholic Schools Feel Money Pinch

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Roman Catholic school system is in the grips of a financial crisis that has forced nearly 1,400 schools to close or consolidate in the last five years and reduced enrollments by a million pupils. The National Catholic Education Association, which made these figures available, also said reports from 150 dioceses indicate that anticipated revenues last school year fell $267 million short of the anticipated $1.4 billion needed.

Since 1965-66, when the church operated 13,292 schools, 1,365 have closed or consolidated, NCEA reported. Enrollment, meanwhile, dropped from about 5.5 million to about 4.5 million. High schools are generally in better shape financially since about two-thirds of their income is tuition and fees. In contrast, parishes subsidize two-thirds of the cost of elementary schools.

Impact of the cutbacks is first felt by public school districts, most of which already are hard pressed financially, and eventually by the taxpayers. Each parochial school student shifted to Public Schools costs taxpayers $800 a year.

There seems little likelihood that the Catholic church will abandon its school system, second in size only to the public schools, but church spokesmen agree that many more parish schools will close unless financial relief is found.

Forty bishops from across the nation met for two days last month and endorsed a "vigorous campaign" to obtain funds from public sources.

Some states have enacted favorable legislation but much of it is under court attack as violating the doctrine of separation of church and state.

Start of Catholic schools in this country dates back to the early 19th century. Later, in 1884, American bishops decreed:

"That near every church a parish school, where one does not yet exist, is to be built and maintained in perpetuum within two years of the promulgation of this council, unless the bishop should decide that because of serious difficulties a delay may be granted."

This decree was never realized, the NCEA says, but could partly be responsible for the present-day structure of the parochial schools whereby each parish is autonomous and responsible for financing and administering the parish schools.

Only last year did the church begin gathering national figures on Catholic schools relating to enrollments, faculty, finance, teacher-pupil ratio, degree level of faculty and location of schools.

Factors that led to the present financial crisis, Rev. C. Albert Koob, NCEA president, said, include changing attitudes of parents, shifting populations, rising costs, lack of support by Catholics, failure to bring more young women into the religious orders, the high cost of lay teachers and the demand for better quality education.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
ap television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Opening
Wednesday night's CBS special on growing pains, "Kids—53
Things to Know About Health,
Sex and Growing Up," narrator
Charles Kuralt said the program was aimed at the audience "between Sesame Street and Laugh-In."

The unusual hour was a useful illustrated lecture for the tortured teens—and their parents.
It covered, in question and answer form, matters that ranged from learning to live with acne bumps—"You'll grow out of it!"
to a frank description of venereal disease symptoms.

The visual part consisted primarily of Atlanta high school students, most of the time showing activities related to the subject under discussion. Seven physicians, all specialists, took turns answering questions. They covered diets and dieting; the benefits of orthodontia, contact lenses and plastic surgery; the dangers of drug use; the perils inherent in "high velocity and contact sports."

In a segment dealing with sex, the youngsters heard one physician approve going steady if it did not shut out other social contacts. Another said, "Petting seems one of the most reasonable and sensible ways to satisfy the normal sex drive."

The hour was brisk and business-like, and the experts leveled in their answers. None talked down to his audience.
Even though the material was not ideally fitted to the visual medium, it held the serious viewer's interest.

NBC came along later with a provocative report on the annual harvest of the crop of the Pribilof Islands off Alaska: the clubbing and skinning of fur seals. It was a disturbing and thought-provoking look at a 200-year-old business. "Man's Thumb on Nature's Balance" permitted Aleut seal hunters as well as humane society officials to express their opinions.

The hour was concerned primarily with showing that conservation is more complicated than merely forbidding destruction. Under the supervision of the U.S. government the Pribilof crop is harvested by herding bachelor bull seals aged 3 to 5 years—no pups, no cows. Excellent camera work showed in painful detail the way the animals are clubbed by the hunters. No less painful way has been found, according to the statements in the program.

Humane society officials want the killing stopped, but the program pointed out that if the United States halted the annual harvest, it would break a treaty with Canada, the Soviet Union and Japan. This would be to open seal hunting to other nations and might mean extinction of the species.

Danes to Boycott Crosby Records

COPENHAGEN (AP) —
Thousands of Danish schoolchildren have been told their supply of Bing Crosby movies is being cut off because of his support of the campaign to end Danish commercial fishing for salmon off Greenland.

Fischer Hansen, who organizes film shows for children in several Danish towns, said
Tuesday he would remove Crosby films from his list and seek a nationwide boycott of the singer's movies and records.

Crosby is a leading supporter of the "Save the Atlantic Salmon" campaign. American sportsmen are pushing. Denmark is the only fishing nation that has refused to sign a convention banning salmon fishing in the mid-Atlantic, where the big fish feed before returning to North American rivers to spawn.

Thinks Police Are Wonderful

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP) —
"The police are wonderful people," a housewife exclaimed after two patrolmen revived her dying baby.

Jennifer McNelis, 9-day old daughter of Marianne McNelis, stopped breathing Monday on her way to a hospital in a patrol car. Mrs. McNelis had called police after she discovered the infant choking.

Patrolman Samuel Mostardi administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and by the time he and Patrolman William Mc-Clelland reached the doctors the child was breathing again.

Pediatricians at Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital said Jennifer is "doing fine."

Junior Girls Take Tourney Victory

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

"We beat Prescott!" was the shout the Hope Kittycats had going last night. The reason why?

After losing by one point in a regular game and losing by two in the final of the Blevins Tourney, both losses to Prescott, the Kittycats came back last night in the Nashville Tournament to down the Wolverettes, 36-34, in a real cliffhanger.

Using some good rebounding and a fine job by the defensive guards, Hope added another notch to their win column and it now stands at 10-4 for the year. Taking the first period tipoff, the Kittycats were never headed after Jill Herring sank a free throw with 6:04 to go. Goals by Karlene Coleman and Gigi Gladney pushed Hope's lead to 5-0, before Prescott could find the range for a goal.

Then, six straight points by Gladney, while allowing the Wolverettes five, left the score at the end of the first quarter, 11-7, Hope leading.

Again Herring started the scoring with a charity toss and after Coleman hit a couple of inside layups, Prescott called time with 2:17 to go, to discuss things.

With Gladney trading buckets with Janice Avery, the first half ended with the Kittycats ahead by five, 18-13.

After intermission, both teams had a good warmup, and at the second half tipoff, fought all the way.

Herring again started the Hope scoring with 4:50 left as she sank a two pointer from the free throw line.

Five more points gave Hope a 25-20 lead, and after Gladney sank two free shots and Coleman popped the net from the outside, the third quarter ended with the Kittycats on the upper end with a 29-22 score.

Hope, at the outset of the last period, quickly took possession with Gladney sinking a field goal, but a comeback try by Prescott left the Wolverettes trailing by only two, 31-29.

From here on out the Kittycats hit the points when they needed to.

Gladney got two quick buckets to pull Hope back out to a six point lead, 35-29, and again Prescott fought back to within two. Now leading by only one, 35-34, the Kittycats put on a good stalling exhibition and ran down the clock with only Gladney hitting the last point for the well deserved win.

Gladney hit 19 points for Hope followed by Coleman with 11, and Herring with six. Avery led Prescott with 12 points.

Outstanding on defense were Carol Frazier, Sharon Ratliff, and Mona Rowe, who held a usually good scoring offense all night, making them the outside shots.

Tonight the Kittycats journey back to Nashville, for the second round of the tournament, where they will play Ashdown at 5:30 p.m. Also the Ladycats and B-Kittycats will play Mineral Springs in Jones Field House.

On Friday night, the Bobcats and Bobkittens travel to Camden. Hope will be after an important district win, trying to stay on top of the 4AA western division.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rod Laver, who stands to earn $170,000 in the Tennis Champions Classic, will play Arthur Ashe in another $10,000 winner take all match tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Laver, the left-handed ace from Australia, has won six straight matches and $60,000 in 21 days and beat Ashe, the former U.S. Davis Cup star from Richmond, Va., 7-5, 6-3, 7-5 in the Garden Jan. 25.

ATLANTA (AP) — The Peach Bowl, which has been played at Georgia Tech's Grant Field since its inception three years ago, will be played at Atlanta Stadium for at least the next three years, officials say.

Many Top Candidates at San Diego

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — He's had a relatively slow start, but Tony Jacklin is far from discouraged or disappointed.

"It really isn't all that bad," the handsome young Englishman said today before teeing off in the first round of the $150,000 Andy Williams San Diego Open golf tournament.

"It takes a little time to get adjusted, of course, and I was pretty tired from all the travel late last year," he said, and ticked off some of his late-season stops: Argentina, Europe, Australia.

Jacklin, son of a truck driver, became the first Englishman in 50 years to win the U.S. Open when he scored by seven strokes at Chaska, Minn., last season.

He returned to England for a while after that triumph, and played very poorly when he rejoined the American tour later in the year, missing four consecutive cuts.

This season, the young man with the bright smile has won about $2,000 in three starts. He's played 12 competitive rounds and broken 70 in six of them.

"It's not a bad start," Jacklin said. "I'm not playing as well as I'd like to, perhaps, but it seems to be coming along."

Jacklin, one of the outstanding favorites with galleries all over the country, was one of the top betting choices for the $30,000 first prize in this event.

He finished second a year ago, losing to Pete Brown in a sudden-death playoff.

"I'd like to win, of course," he said. "But I'm also concerned with just playing well."

"The people back home read these scores, you know. And we can't have them reading that the U.S. Open champion shot a 76 or something, now can we?"

Other top candidates in the 72 hole test over the Torrey Pines Golf Club course include Jack Nicklaus and Masters champion Billy Casper.

Also on hand are such standouts as Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Doug Sanders, Larry Hinton and Bruce Crampton. The major absentees were Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino.

Austin Carr Chips Away at Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Austin Carr, who gunned in 46 points in Notre Dame's upset of UCLA last Saturday, continues to chip away at the major college basketball scoring lead of Mississippi's Johnny Neumann.

Neumann, a sophomore, led the senior Carr by an average of 9.1 points a game a month ago, but his lead now is down to 4.2, according to NCAA statistics released today. Neumann has scored 589 points in 14 games through last Saturday for a 42.1-point per game average. Carr has scored 493 points in 13 games for a 37.9 average.

Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville leads in rebounds with 298 in 13 games for a 22.9 average; Syracuse's Bill Smith's 629 top field goal percentage while Greg Starnick of Southern Illinois is the most accurate foul shooter with a .900 mark.

Shed a Tear for VMI in 21st Loss

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Shed a tear for the Keydets of Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Va. They haven't won a game this season in college basketball.

George Washington handed the Keydets their 21st straight defeat 78-67 Wednesday night behind the 30-point performance of Walt Szczerbiak.

"The players are snake bit," commented Mike Schuler, coach of the Keydets. "We just can't seem to get the good breaks."

The Keydets haven't won since their two straight over Furrman and William and Mary late last season. They dropped their last five games of the 1970 campaign and all 16 of their games to date this season.

The longest losing streak for a major team is 37 by The Citadel from Jan. 1954 to Dec. 1956.

The record losing streak for small colleges is 46 by Olivet.

Sixth-ranked Jacksonville was the only team in The Associated Press Top Twenty to see action. The Dolphins crushed Florida State 83-65. Big 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore scored only 15 points, but dominated the board along with his teammate, 7-foot Pembroke Burrows.

Rick Holdt's basket at the buzzer gave North Carolina State a 100-98 overtime victory over West Virginia. In another extra period fray Oregon State shaded Long Island 71-70 on Gary Arbelbide's short jumper with 43 seconds left.

Louisville crushed St. Louis 90-76, Fordham overcame Massachusetts 87-79, Bradley walloped Northern Iowa 117-71 and Holy Cross defeated Dartmouth 81-75 despite Paul Erland's 44 points that set a Dartmouth single game record.

Temple beat Pitt 54-48, St. Joseph's Pa. humbled American U. 54-50, Kent State tripped Bowling Green 70-67, Niagara whipped Army 60-50 and Fairfield downed Connecticut 88-72 in other major games.

French Have Best Chance for Victory

By PAUL TREUTHARDT
MONTE CARLO (AP) — French Alpine Renaults, holding the top three places, set off to-night on the last stage of the tough Monte Carlo auto rally with strong chances for their first-ever victory.

But with only four minutes separating the top six cars, it will be a battle all the way, with every second counting on the seven high-speed sections which will decide the winner.

Sweden's Bjorn Waldegaard, Porsche, 1969 and 1970 winner of the event, and Italy's Sandro Munari, Lancia, both the sole survivors of their work teams, will give no respite to the three leading Alpine drivers—Ove Andersson, Sweden; Jean-Claude Andruet, France, 1970 European rally champion; and fellow Frenchman Jean-Luc Thierier.

Finnish Rauno Aaltonen, holding sixth place in a Japanese Datsun, is an outsider who will remain a threat, though the car will be much less favored by the route of tonight's run than by the longer previous sections.

Conditions on the mountain passes behind Monaco where the overnight run is held should be easier than the blizzard, ice and pouring rain further north which made the Tuesday and Wednesday section the severest in recent memory.

Only 30 of the 177 cars which started Tuesday got back here inside the scheduled times Wednesday, with drivers telling harrowing stories of the conditions they met.

The Alpines already are assured of winning the team prize, as they are the only firm to have any three-car teams intact.

Patriots Choice to Be Plunkett

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Jim Plunkett, the 1970 Heisman Trophy winner from Stanford, was selected by the Boston Patriots today as the No. 1 pick in the National Football League's college draft.

The Patriots landed Plunkett, holder of the all-time major college records for passing and total offense yardage, after spurning numerous offers to swap the top choice in a package deal for established players.

Plunkett reportedly will seek a $250,000 contract. The Patriots, who drafted first because their 1970 won-lost record was the worst in the league, have another high-salaried quarterback in Joe Kapp.

The New Orleans Saints, picking second, selected quarterback Archie Manning of Mississippi, as expected.

The Houston Oilers picked a third quarterback, Santa Clara's Dan Pastorini.

Stanford's Plunkett, most prolific passer in major college history, and two other gifted quarterbacks, Archie Manning of Mississippi and Dan Pastorini of Santa Clara, loomed as the likely 1-2-3 picks in the draft, with Boston, New Orleans, and Houston on the receiving end in that order.

The Patriots, NFL tale-enders last season, have been besieged with trade offers from clubs coveting the No. 1 pick, and, presumably, the strapping 23-year-old Stanford ace.

But, despite a financial bind involving Joe Kapp, their high-salaried holdover quarterback, and a need for short-order help that a multiplayer trade might bring, they had made no move as the draft session's kickoff approached.

By drafting Plunkett, who holds the all-time major college records for passing yardage and total offense, Boston would have to take on another six-figure salary. Kapp has two years remaining on a three-year contract at about $130,000 per year. Plunkett's asking price has been set in the $250,000 area for a long-term pact.

The Year of the Quarterback in college football was expected to carry over into the draft, with Manning, Pastorini, Kansas State's Lynn Dickey and Duke's Leo Hart likely to follow Plunkett as first-round choices.

New Orleans, which traded quarterback Bill Kilmer to Washington recently, had the inside track to the strong-armed, mobile Manning. Houston reportedly had his sights set on Pastorini, who sparkled in relative obscurity at Santa Clara as a passer, punter and placekicker.

Most of the 26 NFL clubs, who drafted in reverse order of their won-lost percentages last season with the exception of the Super Bowl finalists, were looking for the best talent available, regardless of position, in the early going. But at least half of them were in the market for quarterbacks.

With Philadelphia, Atlanta, Denver, and, possibly, Green Bay among quarterback-shoppers with high first-round choices, it was conceivable that Dickey, Hart, Scott Hunter of Alabama and All-American Joe Theismann of Notre Dame all could be tapped early.

Last year, quarterbacks Terry Bradshaw of Louisiana Tech and Mike Phipps of Purdue went to Pittsburgh and Cleveland, respectively, as the Nos. 1 and 3 picks in the draft. Quarterback Dennis Shaw, Buffalo's second-round pick, earned NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year honors.

Baltimore's world champs and Dallas' Super Bowl losers also were angling for quarterback insurance and each made a pitch for the No. 1 pick.

The Colts, seeking an eventual successor to Johnny Unitas, 37, and his back-up man, Earl Morrall, 36, reportedly offered Boston light end John Mackey, among others, for a shot at Plunkett. The Cowboys, somewhat disillusioned with Craig Morton, were rumored to be dangling Bob Hayes and-or Calvin Hill as trade bait.

Overshadowed by the quarterback sweepstakes, but not overlooked by the pro bird dogs as they launched the 17-round marathon that will conclude with the selection of 442 players, were a number of standouts at

Pivot Men Key Figures in Victories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They play the pivot and Lew Alcindor, Willis Reed, Johnny Green and Walt Wesley were certainly pivotal figures in their clubs' National Basketball Association victories.

Alcindor dropped in 53 points, including the winning field goal, other positions.

Buffalo, which followed Boston, New Orleans and Houston in the draft order, was high on a pair of free pass catchers—J.D. Hill of Arizona State and Elmo Wright of the University of Houston. The same pair were primary targets of the New York Jets, who selected sixth, behind Philadelphia.

Among the pro-size running backs in demand were Ohio State's John Brockington, Kansas' John Riggins, Missouri's Joe Moore and Long Beach State's Leon Burns.

Vernon Holland, a 268-pound tackle from Tennessee State, and Henry Allison, a 255-pound guard from San Diego State, headed a relatively thin crop of outstanding offensive linemen.

Among the defensive line standouts were tackles Richard Harris, 255, of Grambling and Tody Smith, younger brother of Baltimore's Bubba, of Southern California, and ends Jack Youngblood of Florida and Bill Atessis of Texas.

Penn State's Jack Ham and Southern University's Isaiah Robertson are highly rated linebackers while All-American Jack Tatum of Ohio State and Clarence Scott of Kansas late to the defensive secondary list.

Baltimore was the only team with more than one first-round pick, having been awarded Miami's No. 1 by Commissioner Pete Rozelle after he found the Dolphins guilty of tampering with Coach Don Shula.

The first-round order of selection following the No. 6 Jets, was Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Denver, Washington, Chicago, Green Bay, San Diego, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Kansas City, St. Louis, New York Giants, Oakland, Los Angeles, Detroit Baltimore (from Miami), San Francisco, Minnesota, Dallas and Baltimore.

Prince Injured in Dangerous Sled Course

CERVINIA, Italy (AP) — Prince Michael of Kent overturned during the trials for the World Four-man Bobsled Championships today and was dragged half out of the sled for 300 meters.

The British nobleman was picked up at the finish line with cuts all over his face and a bad gash on his throat.

Michael's sled slipped as it came out of the great labyrinth heading towards the fastest sector of the 1,540-meter course. As the sled came down, the other three members of the crew fell out but the prince was caught with both legs inside and his body hanging out.

He was battered against the icy walls of the track, which in 12 days of bobsled competition has accounted for 25 accidents, one of them fatal.

Doctors at Aosta Hospital said later that Michael had suffered, in addition to the face cuts, contusions on the head and left elbow. They said he was in shock but his condition was not serious and he should recover in 20 days.

The prince is a first cousin of Queen Elizabeth.

Of the other three crew members, only Rory Cochrane - Dyet suffered a cut on his nose. The other two — Dennis Lloyd and Michael Sweet—were unhurt.

The trials were called off for today after all 20 competing sleds came down for the first heat.

Organizers said they were forced to cancel the second heat because the track was developing cracks.

Earlier in today's trials, there were two other accidents, involving American and Romanian sleds.

Wade Whitney of Keene Valley, N.Y., bumped his right elbow against the wall on the final stretch and suffered a contusion. Doctors said he would not be able to race in the finals Saturday and Sunday.

Dimidru Focseanu, brakeman for the Romanian sled, fell off on the final curve and suffered bruises all over his body, which also eliminated him from the championship.

Turner Thinks Jets Will Jell This Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Howfield will be kicking for the New York Jets in the next Super Bowl, according to Howfield, who kicked for the Denver Broncos last season, and Jim Turner who kicked for the Jets.

"We'll (the Jets) put it all together this year and to the Super Bowl," Howfield said Thursday from his Littleton, Colo., home after the National Football League trade that saw Denver send him to New York for Turner.

"I'm sorry to be leaving the Jets because the Jets are going to win the Super Bowl next year," said Turner, who kicked three field goals in the Jets' 16-7 upset of Baltimore in the third Super Bowl.

Butkus Played on Bad Knee 14 Years

CHICAGO (AP) — You wouldn't have thought it, but indestructible Dick Butkus, the Chicago Bears' all-pro linebacker, has been playing on a "loose knee" for 14 years.

That's the word of Dr. Theodore Fox, who will operate on Butkus' right knee Friday at Illinois Masonic Hospital.

Fox calls it "preventive surgery" on a stretched ligament. "He's had a loose knee for 14 years, ever since his high school days," Fox said Wednesday.

The Bears said they have known for some time that the operation would have to be done sooner or later. They said Butkus has been able to endure the injury because of the muscle strength of his legs.

Top Scoring, Defensive Teams Tie

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Hockey League schedule matched the league's top offensive team, Boston, with its No. 1 defensive team, New York. The irresistible force against the immovable object. Naturally, it turned out to be a tie.

It was Jean Ratelle's goal with just over five minutes left that earned New York the 2-2 deadlock Wednesday night and kept the Rangers three points behind Boston in the East Division race.

"We'll take the point," said scoring leader Phil Esposito, who managed only one shot on net all night, but assisted on both Boston goals.

"Disappointed?" said Emile Francis, the Ranger coach, repeating a newsman's question. "I'd have to be out of my head to say I'm disappointed. There are 30 games to play yet."

In other games Wednesday, Montreal downed St. Louis 4-2, Pittsburgh took Toronto 3-1, California topped Minnesota 6-2 and Buffalo and Los Angeles played a 3-3 tie.

There was a Stanley Cup atmosphere about the Ranger-Bruin showdown. Both teams have far outdistanced the rest of the East Division since their last meeting two months ago.

Boston's style, of course, is wide open hockey. End-to-end rushes are common in Bruins' games which have been high-scoring all season.

The first period was tight for 23 seconds. That's how long it took Esposito to set up Wayne Cashman's breakaway and for the Bruins to grab the lead.

The Rangers reversed the pressure on to Boston goalie Ed Johnston and it paid off in the tying goal by Billy Fairbairn.

The score remained 1-1 into the third period when Esposito fed Ken Hodge in front of Giacomin for Boston's second goal.

There was 5:01 left to play when Ratelle squared it again after Rod Gilbert had beaten Bobby Orr to the puck to set up the play.

The two teams have another showdown the next to last weekend of the season with consecutive games in Boston and New York.

Serge Savard and Phil Robert scored a pair of third-period goals 35 seconds apart to move Montreal past St. Louis.

George Morrison had tied the score for the Blues at 1:20 of the third period before Savard connected at 3:52. Then Roberto hit at 4:27. Jacques Lemaire had his 100th NHL career goal and Yvan Cournoyer also scored for Montreal. Bill Sutherland had St. Louis' other goal.

Syl Apps Jr., acquired from New York in a trade Tuesday, scored one goal and assisted on another as Pittsburgh whipped Toronto.

Apps, who arrived in Pittsburgh only hours before the game, set up Greg Polis for the Penguins' first goal and then scored the second, sidestepping veteran defenseman Bob Baun to beat goalie Jacques Plante.

Gary Croteau powered California past Minnesota with three goals. Norm Ferguson, Ernie Hicke and Dennis Hextall produced the other Golden Seals' goals while Bill Golds-worthy and Danny Lawson clicked for the North Stars.

Rookie Gil Perrault's power play goal in the third period enabled Buffalo to salvage its deadlock with Los Angeles. Juha Widing scored twice for the Kings.

Course Record Lowered in Daytona Trials

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball is "inviting a strike" by refusing to get rid of its controversial reserve clause system, says Arthur Goldberg, attorney for Curt Flood who is fighting the reserve clause in the courts.

Goldberg made his statement Thursday as a three-judge U.S. Court of Appeals reserved decision in the Flood case.

The three-judge panel had been asked to enjoin Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of baseball, and the major league clubs from continuing to use the system of rules (the reserve clause) that binds a player until he is traded, sold or released with or without his permission. Federal Judge Irving Ben Cooper dismissed last spring a $3 million damage suit by Flood, who did not play in 1970 but who recently signed with Washington.

Flood is asking in his appeal for injunctive relief and damages from Dec. 24, 1969, when Kuhn refused to allow him to be designated a free agent.

Flood sued baseball when he was traded by St. Louis to Philadelphia after the 1969 season.

Sold Out But Ali Sideshow Keeps Going

By HUBERT MIZELL

Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Madison Square Garden has sold every ticket for the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier heavyweight spectacular—from $150 ringside to $20 back row seats—but the sales pitch goes on.

"Snap it quick, while I'm all flexed up," barked Ali. "People'll see this pretty body and I've sold 10 more seats for the closed-circuit TV."

The ex-Cassius Clay posed willingly for the national magazine's photographer. He'll pose almost as quickly for a kid with a Brownie.

"You see me on the Flip Wilson Show?" he asked. "Did you see Flip playin' that girl, Geraldine? Heck, ole Geraldine could whup Joe Frazier."

Ali laughed at his own funny. The bout with Frazier is scheduled for March 8 in the 19,500-seat New York sports palace. Joe and Ali have already seen the checks for their $2.5 million apiece guarantee.

"The more TV seats we sell, the more we'll get," beamed Ali. "Everybody is gonna wanna see the fight of all time. Some gonna come see me beat Frazier. Some coming to see me lose. The second half gonna be disappointed."

Although it'll cost some boxing fans a week's pay to see the big fight, Ali gives them a cheaper show daily at rickety old Fifth Street Gym in lower Miami Beach.

"Let's see the Ali Shuffle," demanded one of the dozen 100-cent onlookers.

Ali looked at him with a straight face. "That will cost you at least $19 more than you paid," he said.

The somber-faced Ali that prepared for his comeback two months ago against Jerry Quarry has been replaced. A big hunk of the old wise-cracking, poem-writing, loud-mouthing man is back.

"No, I don't shoot off my mouth like I used to," claims the unbeaten, but ousted, heavyweight king. "That was all for show—it got people to come see me fight, whether they wanted me to win or lose."

That was a tactic he learned from the old wrestler, Gorgeous George. No matter what Ali says, he hasn't forgotten all those sports showbiz lessons.

The man never stops selling himself.

Coaches Love This Kind of Substitute

Neil Johnson of the Virginia Squires was the kind of substitute coaches love.

With Doug Moe injured, Johnson started against the Floridians Thursday night and scored a pro career high 31 points and picked off 16 rebounds in a 126-117 American Basketball Association victory for the Eastern Division-leading Squires.

Charlie Scott of the Squires was high for the game with 34 points. Mack Calvin paced the Floridians with 27.

Indiana topped the New York Nets 116-100 and Utah downed Denver 111-105 in the only other ABA games.

In the National Basketball Association, Milwaukee edged Boston 132-129, Cincinnati nipped Baltimore 115-113, San Francisco whipped Detroit 129-112, the

New York Knicks took Atlanta 116-108, Cleveland drubbed Portland 118-104 and Chicago topped San Diego 111-106.

Indiana built an 88-61 lead late in the third quarter and coasted by the Nets. Bob Netolicky led the Pacers with 22 points. Rick Barry was high for the Nets with 28.

Utah, in defeating Denver, remained tied for first place in the Western Division with Indiana. Glen Combs keyed the Stars' victory with 38 points. Larry Cannon topped the Rockets with 16.

Says Baseball, Basketball Don't Mix

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Organized, competitive basketball should be a no-no for major league baseball players, says Bob Howsam and Sparky Anderson.

The general manager and manager of the National League pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds have the scar — a serious injury to star center fielder Bob Tolan — to prove it.

Against the club's wishes, Tolan, Johnny Bench, Pete Rose, Jimmy Stewart, Lee May and Jim Maloney agreed to play a 19-game basketball barnstorming tour this winter.

Tolan tore an Achilles tendon during a basketball game and will be sidelined until June, forcing Howsam to think of contract rule amendments and Anderson to shuffle his outfield talent.

"I think clubs should have the say if players are to play basketball in their contracts. We cannot do that now because of the last negotiations with the players," Howsam said.

"That's one of Marvin Miller's beauties. I'm sure he won't replace Tolan for us," Anderson said of the players' legal counsel who engineered the move that basketball was permitted in current contracts.

Anderson, who led the Reds into the World Series in his first year at the helm, said he would use Hal McRae in left, Pete Rose in center and Bernie Carbo in right if the National League season began today.

Except for two charity contests, the Reds players cancelled the rest of their basketball exhibitions when Tolan was hurt. May, the slugging first baseman, said he thinks basketball is a good idea, however.

"If it's permissible," May said, "I'd play again next year. It keeps you in shape. It's controlled. We had our own referees and it's enjoyable."

19 Year Old Pair Leads in Skating

BUFFALO (AP) — With a twinkle in their eyes, Jo Jo Starbuck and Kenneth Shelley set their sights on a second consecutive national pairs championship tonight in the U.S. Figure Skating Championships. It was not to be an easy task.

The pair of 19 year olds from Downey, Calif., awaited the finals with a slight edge compiled in the events' first phase, the exacting figures.

Miss Starbuck and Shelley won the first-place votes of six of seven judges Wednesday night to nip Melissa and Mark Millitano, brother and sister team of Dix Hills, N.J. The Millitanos, 15 and 16 respectively, picked up six second place ballots.

Two other champions, the novices, also were to be crowned tonight. Laurie Brandell, 13, of Los Alamitos, Calif., was the favorite to annex the novice ladies' title on the strength of her four first-place votes and one-second place vote in the figures.

She easily out-distanced Patti Gyllenswan of Culver City, Calif.

John Carlos of Scottsdale, Ariz., the only skater to win the first-place favor of all five judges, loomed as the new novice men's champion. His stiffest competition could come from Terri Kubicki, 14, of Cypress, Calif., who was second in the figures.

Cathy Casey, 16, and Francis Cassella, 17, of Hartford, Conn., third in the national Silver Dance a year ago, became the halfway leaders for the 1971 crown with a one-half ordinal victory over Myra and David Cherien of Parma, Ohio.

David Santee, 13, of Park Ridge, Ill., set out for his first national junior title by scoring best in the figures, edging Mahlon Bradley, 13, of Watertown, Mass. Santee was a third place finisher in the national novice competition last year.

Clause Invites Strike, Says Attorney

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — After lowering the course record by a stunning five seconds in informal practice, drivers went to work in earnest today to find starting spots in this weekend's Daytona 24-hour endurance race.

The battle for the pole position, to be determined in two time trial sessions today and two Friday, shaped up as a head-to-head clash between Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez in a Porsche and U.S. road racing champion Mark Donohue in a Ferrari.

"What you saw out there today was like flirting with what we plan to do later," the 31-year-old Slightly built Rodriguez said Wednesday after touring the 3.81 mile road and track course at better than 130 miles per hour.

Rodriguez' time-unofficial but an eye-opener nonetheless—was almost six seconds under Mario Andretti's course mark of 1 minute, 51.6 seconds (122.903 m.p.h.)—set last year in a Ferrari. Andretti is not entered this year.

"The course is so much better

Donohue, 33-year-old graduate engineer from Media, Pa., wheeled Roger Penske's rebuilt Ferrari 512 around at 129.5 m.p.h. and admitted he was merely "setting the car up" for qualifying.

"Everything is going perfectly," he said. "This is by far the quickest car I've ever driven. There is no reason it shouldn't sit on the pole ... and I think we'll need at least 132 m.p.h. to do it."

Bumpers Asked to Reject Negro Member

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers has reportedly been asked by the East Arkansas legislative delegation to go along with possible Senate rejection of former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's appointment of a Negro to the Board of Trustees at Arkansas State University.

The delegation met with Bumpers in the governor's office Wednesday.

The legislators were said to have requested that Bumpers not ask the Senate to reconsider its rejection of the appointment of Elijah Coleman of Pine Bluff if Coleman's name is turned down.

Bumpers said his decision on whether to recommend Coleman's confirmation probably would be made Friday, but no later than Monday.

One legislator who attended the meeting and asked that his name not be used said Bumpers was working on a plan that would "satisfy everybody."

Other legislative sources indicated that the plan might be to appoint another black to Coleman's position if Coleman is rejected and name Coleman to another public position. One legislator said there was "no question" that a black would succeed Coleman at ASU.

He said the legislators did not want Coleman on the ASU board because he is a "controversial figure."

Coleman, 46, is executive director of the Arkansas Human Relations Council. He said in an interview that he did not know what legislative opposition to

Split Session of Legislature Is Proposed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An administration bill to provide for a split legislative session in years when a new governor takes office was introduced Wednesday in the Arkansas House.

The purpose of the bill, sponsored by Rep. Calvin R. Ledbetter Jr. of Little Rock, is to give a nonincumbent governor time to prepare for the legislative session.

Under the measure, in the year a new governor assumes office the General Assembly would convene as it now does on the second Monday in January, but would recess after no more than five days until the first Monday in March, when it would resume its regular 60-day session.

The first part of the split session would be used to certify and declare election results as required by the Constitution and to organize each house.

Reps. John M. Lipton of Warren, Steve Smith of Huntsville and Leroy Blankenship of Walnut Ridge introduced a bill that would be an alternative to the controversial proposed repeal of the 1969 child care facility licensing act.

The measure would exclude from the 1969 law child care facilities for six or fewer children unless they serve children whose care is paid for from federal or state Welfare Department funds.

Rep. Jim Linder of West Helena introduced a bill to require private clubs holding mixed drinks permits to undergo an audit by the legislative Joint Auditing Committee if one is requested by a legislator. The audit would be used to determine if a club is nonprofit.

The 1967 mixed drink law permits the licensing only of nonprofit clubs.

Appointment of Roebuck Confirmed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An aide to Gov. Dale Bumpers said Wednesday that James Daniel "Dan" Roebuck, an officer of a Fort Smith trucking firm, will be appointed executive director of The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission. The appointment is subject to approval of the AIDC Commissioners.

Confirmation of an Associated Press report that Roebuck was in line for the appointment was made through Archie Schaffer, the governor's appointment secretary.

Roebuck, 36, is vice president of Arkansas-Best Freight System Inc. at Fort Smith.

Roebuck would take office March 1, filling the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Adrian Williamson Jr., who joined Union National Bank of Little Rock.

Bumpers would neither confirm nor deny Roebuck's pending appointment.

Roebuck was in New Jersey on business and unavailable for comment.

Andrew Jackson, in 1824, was the first president to receive a plurality of popular votes but he failed to win the election.

him could be but that it did not surprise him. He said he had had no discussions with legislators from Northeast Arkansas.

Black Caucus Is Formed in Congress

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their ranks growing and infused with a new spirit of activism, the 12 black members of the House have organized their own committee to represent the nation's 25 million blacks.

They call it the Black Caucus, and they hope by concerted action to make heard the voices of their constituents in the ghettos of Watts, Harlem, Bedford-Stuyvesant, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland and Philadelphia.

"We're all dealing with the same problems," says Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., "and we can do a better job if we work as a group rather than as individuals."

Hawkins was named vice chairman at the caucus organizing session Wednesday. Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., a 16-year veteran of the House, was named chairman, and Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., a freshman, was elected secretary.

The other caucus members are Reps. Robert N.C. Nix, D-Pa.; John Conyers, D-Mich.; Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y.; Louis Stokes, D-Ohio; William Clay, D-Mo.; George Collins, D-Ill.; Ralph H. Metcalfe, D-Ill.; Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif.; and Parren J. Mitchell, D-Md.

The new militancy among the blacks actually began in the last Congress with arrival of Clay and Stokes. They stirred up the older blacks, who had generally operated alone, and the caucus was organized on an informal basis.

With the seating of five more black members in the 92nd Congress last week, there was a need for a more effective organization and one was established Wednesday, complete with rules, subcommittees and a weekly meeting date.

The caucus staked out areas of concern to blacks, such as civil rights and law enforcement, housing, education and job training, and assigned each member to explore one of them and report to the caucus any action that might be taken.

The caucus also decided to require a two-thirds vote for committing it to a position or a course of action, a step made necessary by the wide range of activism among the members.

Caucus actions to date have included a boycott of President Nixon's State of the Union address and demand for free television time for an address of their own on the grounds Nixon ignored problems of blacks.

It was also a caucus decision to seek a seat on the House Appropriations Committee for Stokes, an assignment he got Wednesday, making him the first black to serve on that important panel.

With 12 votes the caucus is not yet strong enough to become a factor in voting on the House floor, but its members feel that will come with time. They expect to gain three or more seats in the 1972 elections and look forward to steady increases until there are 35 or 40 black members in the House.

"A lot of them should be from the South," said Hawkins, "and that should really turn things around."

Clemente Has Signed Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente has signed his 1971 contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates for an estimated $115,000.

Clemente, a four-time National League batting champion, will be playing in his 17th year with the Pirates.

The Pirates also announced Wednesday the signing of three pitchers.

They are Lou Marone, Frank Brosseau and veteran George Brunet, now with his ninth major league team.

1,700 Rescued Birds Are Reported Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More than 1,700 birds rescued from the oily waters around San Francisco have died, and most of the 800 remaining in shelters will not survive much longer, experts say.

"It's nearly impossible to keep them alive," San Francisco Zoo Director Ron Reuther said Tuesday. He estimated that only 2 or 3 per cent of the waterfowl picked up after an oil tanker spill would recover.

The zoo set up a holding and treatment center last Thursday night and has handled 1,551 be-smirched birds. Only 378 survive, Reuther said.

Species involved include ducks, grebes, scoters, murrelets and loons.

Child Care Issue Gets Approval

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Senate approved Wednesday bills to limit bank holding companies and Welfare Department regulation of child care facilities.

The House took no major action.

The Senate rejected three proposed amendments, blocked consideration of six others and then voted 32-2 for its version of a bill to prohibit further development of bank holding companies.

The House has approved a bill identical to the one successfully sponsored in the Senate Wednesday by Sen. John F. Bearden Jr. of Leachville.

The vote on Sen. Virgil T. Fletcher's child care facility measure was 18-14. The 18 votes were exactly the number needed for passage.

The bill would permit the Welfare Department to regulate only child care facilities receiving state or federal aid.

The department drafted regulations under authority of Act 434 of 1969, which Fletcher first sought to repeal. The senator amended his bill, however, to permit regulation of aided facilities.

The effect is to limit regulation by the department to about 400 facilities which already are regulated under the programs through which federal and state aid money is paid to them.

About 1,200 other facilities will be left virtually unregulated.

Fletcher's bill now goes to the House, where its defeat is considered probable. The Senate's bank holding company bill goes to the House, also. The House-passed bank holding bill is pending in the Senate.

The target of the bank holding bill is First Arkansas Bankstock Corp. Worthen Bank & Trust Co. of Little Rock is the anchor bank of that corporation. Banks at Stephens and Hot Springs have begun steps to become part of the holding company.

Amendments proposed to the bank holding bill Wednesday were aimed chiefly at permitting the corporation, known as FABCO, to carry out any contracts already executed with the banks at Hot Springs and Stephens and, presumably, any others not yet publicly revealed.

It became clear immediately that the sentiment in the Senate was overwhelming in favor of Bearden's bill and against further growth by FABCO.

Sen. Oscar Alagood of Little Rock, who voted against the bill along with Sen. W. A. Womack of Camden, noted the tide was running against his efforts to alter the bill and said he was reminded of someone's remark: "I hear the train coming. You either get on board or you get flattened." He conceded later he had been flattened.

Supporters of Bearden's bill argued in committee hearings that a bank holding company would concentrate too much capital in a single firm.

Hearings on Fletcher's bill had brought out a number of operators of small child-care facilities who objected that the proposed regulations were too stringent.

The regulations still are in the drafting stage. None have been finally adopted, although preliminary steps have been taken to license and regulate child care centers when regulations were finalized.

Len E. Blaylock, who has submitted his resignation as welfare commissioner, urged creation of some sort of regulatory protection for children in care centers.

Fletcher saw Welfare Department regulation as an avenue for federal invasion of private lives.

"Why do they want these regulations?" he asked the Senate. "Mr. Blaylock says environment. They want to control their minds."

Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway bailed "a petty, dictator, martinet named Blaylock" who, Jones said, wanted to widen Welfare Department control of people's lives.

"Any man or woman who wants to make a private contract for care of children should be allowed to do so," Jones said. "This is not a paternalistic government. That's what Communistic Russia does."

Jones said the regulations would deny income to "women trying to stay off welfare, try-nations, some of them involving positions to which Rockefeller made appointments and about 50 involving new appointments available to Bumpers, will be made in the next few days.

The absence of an appointee for the ASU board "meant nothing, one way or the other," Bumpers told reporters.

Rockefeller had submitted a list of 226 appointees to the Senate on Jan. 12, but the Senate refused to receive the list.

Between that act and the confirmation Wednesday, senators and Bumpers discussed the various appointees, deciding what changes should be made. Approval was a foregone conclusion when the list reached the Senate because of individual agreements legislators had reached with Bumpers and because of a policy stance adopted this week in a caucus of Senate Democrats.

The list Bumpers submitted for confirmation included 175 of the same appointments Rockefeller had offered.

The major changes were these:

- Aeronautics Commission, Mrs. Virginia Proctor of Wynne in place of Dr. N. C. David of Brinkley.
- Claims Commission, David Stewart of Danville in place of Gene Mazzanti of Little Rock.
- Forestry Commission, J. A. Rodman of Melbourne in place of Joe Mills of Clarksville.
- Board of Registration for Foresters, Weems Trussell of Fordyce in place of Robert H. Clark of Fordyce.
- Geological Commission, Todd Landers Jr. of Magnolia in place of Jack Kern of Magnolia.
- Henderson State College Board, H. D. Luck of Arkadelphia and James Pilkinton of Hope in place of Guy E. Robins of Hot Springs and Charles Mazander of Benton.
- Commission on Coordination of Higher Education Finance, Beverly Lambert of Crossett in place of Mary McLeod of Morrilton.
- Juvenile Training School Board, Miss Reaoder Johnson of Little Rock in place of Miss Dorothy Hosford of Fort Smith.
- Livestock and Poultry Commission, Dr. Al Davis of Russellville in place of Ross Martin of Paris.
- Pardons and Paroles Board, W. I. Prewett of El Dorado in place of Sam Hodges of Benton.
- State Plant Board, Wallace Martin of Parkin in place of Charles Peacock Jr. of McCrory.
- State Police Commission, W. J. Brothers of Helena, Frank Falls of Jonesboro and Joe Steele of Springdale in place of Bankston Waters of West Helena, Randy Warner of Fort Smith and Dick Sturgis of Arkadelphia.
- Racing Commission, H. M. Osbourn of Dardanelle in place of Marion Hartz of Stuttgart.
- Soil and Water Conservation Commission, Wayne Gairhan of Trumann in place of Bob L. Rimmer of El Dorado.
- Southern State College Board, Sheila Anthony of El Dorado and Wallace D. Cook of Camden in place of Earl Jones Jr. of Texarkana and Dr. W. H. Hunter of Little Rock.
- Stream Preservation Committee, A. D. Watkins of Hot Springs in place of Alvis Owens of Hot Springs.
- Arkansas Turnpike Authority, Frank Carlisle of Cotter in place of O. D. Pendergrass of Mountain Home.
- Welfare Board, Don Butler of West Memphis and Harold Fall of Wynne in place of Paul Geels of Subiaco and Dr. James Snider of Fort Smith.

Launch Team Makes Final Adjustments

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The launch team makes final adjustments today to the two Apollo 14 spaceships, certifying them for flight to the moon Sunday.

Throughout the day, the crew, working at the 320-foot level of the launch support tower, planned to remove test equipment, replace panels and check systems to make certain the command ship Kitty Hawk and the lunar module Antares are flight ready.

This operation, known as a mechanical buildup, followed two days in which propellants and pressurization gases were loaded aboard the two vehicles.

Included was installation of a conical fiberglass cover to protect the command ship during the Saturn 5 rocket's upward thrust through the atmosphere. It is discarded early in flight.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset

Before replacing panels around the base of Antares, workmen loaded aboard a two-wheel cart, folded to fit in a small space.

Astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell are to pull this rickshaw-like cart about as they explore the lunar surface. The moon buggy has containers for everything from cameras and film magazines to shovel, scoop and core tubes and 35 numbered bags into which samples are to be placed.

While astronaut Stuart A. Roosa orbits alone in Kitty Hawk, Shepard and Mitchell are to spend 33½ hours on the moon, exploring the ancient Fra Mauro highlands in a search for rocks that might hold clues to the origin of the moon.

The mechanical buildup of the spaceships was part of the countdown, which continued to progress smoothly toward the planned liftoff at 3:23 p.m. EST Sunday.

Shepard, Mitchell and Roosa planned several hours practice today in the command and lunar module simulators, concentrating on three maneuvers in the vicinity of the moon—firing into lunar orbit, lowering the orbit to 12 miles before Antares is released for its descent and propelling Kitty Hawk out of orbit and back toward earth.

The astronauts also spend some time today studying stowage of cameras and film aboard Kitty Hawk. Shepard and Mitchell review quick stowage procedures which would be necessary in Antares if they have to make an emergency liftoff from the moon.

The crew practiced emergency procedures in the simulators Wednesday and later was briefed on certain modifications made in the space vehicles.

Army Suspends Orders to Purge Files

By JOHN S. LANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has suspended orders to purge its Investigative Records Repository of reports on civilians not connected with the military and is continuing to feed the mammoth file with raw FBI data.

The Army has been under congressional attack for its domestic intelligence operations, and orders issued Dec. 15 by its adjutant general, Maj. Gen. Kenneth G. Wickham, have been recently interpreted to mean the military is ending most of its watch on civilians.

But the general superceded that order with a private directive this month to the commander of the Army intelligence headquarters at Ft. Holabird, Md., where most of the records are kept.

The first order required a purge of all Army files of information on civilians not affiliated with the Defense Department and also prohibited storage of such FBI reports.

However, the second order temporarily exempts the Investigative Records Repository (USAIRR) at Ft. Holabird "because further study is needed to determine the impact of these two requirements."

Asked for comment, Army spokesmen said they were unaware of the second directive and could not immediately respond.

Even without the superceding order, non-military sources point out possible loopholes in the Dec. 15 directive which they say leave the Army with broad authority for continuing its domestic surveillance.

Indonesia Plane Found

JAKARTA (AP) — Searchers today spotted wreckage of a missing Indonesian air force cargo plane in waters south of Biak Island but found no trace of the eight crew members, including a son-in-law of the late President Sukarno.

The plane disappeared last Thursday night on a routine flight from Biak.

LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Walk to Health And Ripe Old Age

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—While on a visit in Orlando, I read your column (Walking, Lose Those Pounds). I am 53 years old and started walking five months ago, a mile in the morning, a mile at night. When I started walking, I weighed 204 pounds, I now weigh 185 pounds, and I enjoy every minute of it. I am not on any diet but have cut down on sweets.

Dear Reader—Thank you. There is no good reason why any other person who can walk can't accomplish the same thing you have. The key is consistency. One could walk one-half mile four times a day if it were more convenient. Cutting down sweets also helps. A loss of 19 pounds in five months is a good result and a major improvement in your way of life. Interestingly enough, the one thing most people who live to old age in good health have in common is that they walk a lot. It is not essential to jog or run for your life—if you walk regularly enough.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have been told a number of times that I have duodenitis. Could you tell me what this is? Also, if I don't follow a bland diet, could this lead to something more serious?

Dear Reader—"Itis" is the medical term for inflammation. Inflammation of the appendix is appendicitis, inflammation of the tonsils, tonsillitis. Duodenitis is the inflammation of the duodenum, the first portion of the small intestine connected to the outlet of the stomach. This is the same location for most peptic ulcers, hence duodenal ulcers. The inflammation is usually caused by too much stomach acid and problems closely related to ulcers.

A bland diet is useful in treating duodenitis. So are antacids. Cigarettes, alcohol, coffee and colas should be stopped. Coffee is a frequent cause of the problem. Unless one changes his habits, duodenitis can progress to an ulcer. In many ways they are the same thing, only one has resulted in ulceration.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a woman of 45. I've never had a serious illness or operation. For the past 25 years I've eaten two eggs every day, seven days a week. Am I liable to have a heart attack?

Dear Reader—Heart attacks are caused by many factors, including the amount one eats of anything and how much exercise a person gets. Then there is the problem of cigarettes. Women are protected from heart attacks for the most part until after the menopause. By the age of 65 men and women have about the same rate of heart attacks. The American Heart Association recommends that one should eat no more than three eggs a week, including those in cooking. I don't think your past habits necessarily mean you are going to have a heart attack soon but it would be wiser for you to follow the three-eggs-a-week limit.

Incidentally, there is a powdered egg in some dietary sections that contains only one-fifth as much cholesterol and fat as normal eggs.

Truman Has Intestinal Disorder

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman's physician says a moderate amount of diverticulitis in the intestinal tract is the apparent cause of the former president's abdominal difficulty.

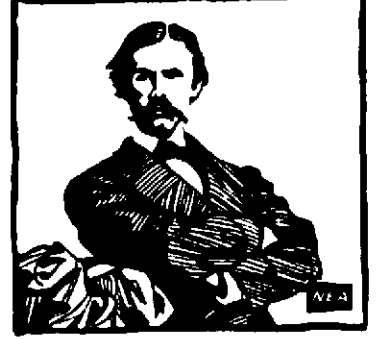

The disorder is one in which material from the intestinal tract collects in sac-like appendages to the large intestine, causing irritation.

Dr. Wallace Graham said Tuesday that Truman also has some hardening of the arteries but in no greater amount than is commonly found in a person Truman's age. Truman will be 87 May 8.

Tuesday night, John Dreyer, hospital information director, said Truman continued in good condition and his appetite showed steady improvement.

Graham gave no indication of how long Truman will be hospitalized. He has been in Research Hospital since last Thursday.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Secretary of State John Hay was the first to recommend that the term American be used as an adjective instead of United States. The World Almanac recalls that on Aug. 3, 1804, Hay introduced U.S. diplomatic officials to use American as an adjective.

We know a philosophical gambler who feels that you should gamble some every day. Otherwise, you might get into a streak of good luck and never know it.

We aren't going to go into the merits and demerits of this theory except to point out that the winning bridge player avoids gambling any time he has a sure-thing play.

South ruffs the second round of diamonds and draws trumps. At this point he has three ways to gamble with his contract. The first is to lead a heart toward dummy and finesse the jack. If it works he can discard one of dummy's clubs on the king of hearts and be sure of 10 tricks. If the finesse loses he will still make his contract if East holds the ace of clubs.

The second is to lead a club from dummy and play East for that same ace of clubs.

The third is to assume that West holds the ace of clubs and East the queen of hearts, but that West will only have two clubs so the ace will have to be played if South just plays two low clubs.

Any one of these gambles might work. If South chooses the right one he will be in one of those lucky streaks. If South is a winning bridge player he will take the sure-thing play.

He will win the second trump in dummy and ruff a diamond. Next will come three rounds of hearts, with the third round ruffed in dummy. Then South will lead dummy's last diamond and discard a low club from his hand. West will score a surprise diamond trick, but South will make his contract. West will either have to play a club or give South a ruff in dummy and discard a club from his own hand.

Sexy Rita Can Be Funny, Too

By JOAN CROSBY

BEVERLY HILLS—(NEA)—You don't expect a Living Legend-Sex Goddess to be funny, but Rita Hayworth is funny and that's why you figure she'll be great on The Carol Burnett Show.

It's well known by now that Carol recently spoofed Rita's famous "Gilda" and that Rita, who says she didn't know Carol was doing the spoof, just happened to watch. She sent a congratulatory telegram. That led to Rita agreeing to make her first television appearance on the Feb. 1 CBS-TV Carol Burnett Show.

Her only other appearance on the tube, not counting scads of old films, was an interview she did for the first First Tuesday. She wasn't happy with the result.

"That guy made me look as if I live alone with only my dogs for company, that I play golf alone, that I do everything alone," she says. "That's bad publicity. I don't live alone. I love people. I'm always going out. I love being around people. A celebrity like I am, sort of, if she's not out every night, people say she's a recluse."

Rita is sitting in the den of her Beverly Hills home. She's wearing a long brown crepe button-down-the-front (but not all the way) dress, with beige borders and swinging, open panels from the knees down. "It's fun," she says, twirling around and kicking up her booted legs. "I love to do that."

Her appearance with Carol hadn't been taped yet, so she couldn't say whether or not the experience will lead her into more television.

"Let me break the ice first," she says. "I'm getting a little scared. Probably I'll just stand there and laugh and look at the camera and say, 'I forgot my line.'"

"Carol and I are doing a charwoman skit. I'm trying to imitate Carol. I've got a lot of nerve. She's a lovely lady to work with and she's so talented. I wouldn't be doing this if it weren't for Carol. She's fun to talk to. I like her, in a word. She's the only idol I have. I think."

Rita has a film presently in release in Europe, "Road to Salina." In a review in Paris' Le Figaro, a tough critic said: "A greater actress in her second career than she ever was in her first."

She'd like to do more films.

"Sure. I would, but it's tough to get a job. There are hardly any films for a woman my age. Someone always gets all the parts I want. That reminds me. I still haven't gotten the money from Joe Levine that I was supposed to get when the film went into release. He owes me $20,000, which I could easily use. Levine saw the film and bought it for the

Some College Students on Stamp Program

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP)— There are college students in Arkansas on the federal food stamp program, but officials said the percentage is low.

They admit, however, that the exact figure is not available. In Washington County, the home of the state's largest college, The University of Arkansas, local officials say relatively few students are on the program.

In Pulaski County, the home of the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, Philadner Smith College, Shorter College, the University of Arkansas Medical School and several business schools, officials estimate that the number of students on the program is not more than 20.

A spokesman said that the majority of those on the program are married families and a number are students at the University of Arkansas Medical School or are pharmacy students.

A caseworker in the Little Rock welfare office, who declined to be identified, as did all others interviewed about the program, said that each student on the program was thoroughly investigated and certified. She said that most were married, but that in one instance three male roommates qualified and were on the program.

She said that there appeared to be no stigma attached to applying for the program by most of the student applications, however she said some seemed "embarrassed" when they made their application.

The caseworker said that the number of students on the program appeared to have increased since the program began, but attributed the increase to the "feeler" theory, whereby a few students paved the way for others to apply.

She said the "extra precautions" were taken in checking out the student application and that only essential student fees were taken into consideration. She said a student's activity fee was not considered—only items necessary for education.

The caseworker said that students receiving loans at the beginning of the year were not eligible for the stamps until their bank accounts had been depleted to acceptable levels, which varies according to the number of students in a family.

She recalled that one girl was on the program for only a month, because she was in a financial bind.

The caseworker, state and federal officials in Little Rock concurred that the students should receive the stamps if they qualify.

Both federal and state officials said that very few cases of fraud had been found among the students, and when there was, it appeared to be a case of misunderstanding the rules of the program.

A spokesman for the federal food stamp office in Little Rock said that several student cases appeared on the surface to be fraudulent, but he said after checking into the cases further it was found that the students did qualify.

He said that five cases of men at Harding College in Searcy were investigated because the men were on athletic scholarships, but he said that each qualified because of their low income.

The White County Welfare Office, where Harding is located, said the number of students on the program from the campus had remained about the same since the program began.

She said that the students enrolled on the program were married and had families.

Miss Nancy Englehart of Little Rock, food stamp coordinator for the state Welfare Department, said that student violations are rare.

Miss Englehart recalled a case at State College of Arkansas in Conway where a student had registered and lived in the dormitory which violated the regulation saying the student had to have cooking facilities.

She speculated that this particular student was either selling the food stamps or the food.

Her feeling was that it was alright for the student to receive the stamps if they qualified.

Both Miss Englehart and the employee of the federal food stamp office agreed that the government was not being cheated by students being enrolled in the program.

If the students qualified for the stamps, they deserve them, both said.

The caseworker for Pulaski County said she had "mixed emotions" about students on the program. She said students who qualified should be on the program. But she questioned the student that was receiving help from parents that was not declared on their applications.

The employee of the federal office speculated that more students are eligible for the stamps than have applied, partially because of the psychological stigma of going to a welfare office, which administers the program on the local level. He said he remembered incidents during his own college career when students were barely surviving on one meal a day because they could not afford food.

A Little Rock senior at UALR, who holds a part-time job, applied for the program and was turned down partly because her roommate made more money than allowed by the program.

According to the rules, all those living in a household must not make over the specified amount.

The college student said she felt no stigma attached to receiving food stamps and would apply again if she could qualify.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset

She said that the students should receive the food stamps, if they qualify, because they were "trying to better" themselves. She said it was "rough" working part-time to make living expenses and going to school.

She said students needed help from somewhere and expressed the feeling that the government should help.

Fish Oddity
Brilliantly colored, the tile-fish has an odd, greenish-yellow flesh fin on top of its head. No other fish in North American waters has this type of fin.

Would Halt Population Flow to Cities

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)— To iderman E. Talmadge, Georgia farmer and new chairman of the powerful Senate Agriculture Committee, the solution to the ills of the cities depends directly on how quickly the flow of people from the countryside can be stopped.

"We've got to create a sound balance between rural and urban America," the 57-year-old Democrat said in an interview. "I hope we can reverse the trend of movement of people from rural to urban areas."

This is no easy problem, Talmadge admits, and it won't be solved until something is done to make the farm a more attractive place to live.

That will be the work of his committee, Talmadge said, "as well as to try to help the farmers get better income for their products."

Talmadge took over the Agriculture Committee after 14 years as a member when Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., stepped down in order to chair the Appropriations Committee. Talmadge is not alone in seeing a rejuvenated rural America as a key to making urban areas better places to live. The Nixon administration has called for steps to redistribute population for economic and social reasons.

Fulfilling such thoughts, Talmadge said, "will require decentralization of industry. And before you can have decentralization, you've got to make rural America a better place to live, more attractive, with better schools, recreational, health and water and sewage facilities."

Noting urban problems of crime, pollution, welfare costs

Thursday, January 28, 1971

and congestion, Talmadge said, "We can't solve the urban problem as long as we have a constant flow of people with little education and skills from rural areas to the cities competing for jobs in a market already crowded and with many winding up on welfare rolls."

Talmadge said he was with almost everything Sen. Ellender did during his long tenure as committee chairman and does not expect any changes in farm legislation while he runs the committee.

The year closed with 2° below normal. Normal is arrived by averaging the highest and lowest temperatures for the past 24 hour period. During 1969 we were 1.6° below normal. January 1970 was a rather cold one averaging 7.5° below normal. Recalling how hot it was in July when we had 24 days that the temperature reached 90° or more it is hard to believe that we ended the month with 3.4° below normal. If you will recall we had many cool nights thus off-setting the high daytime temperatures. December was the warmest month compared to the normal with 3.6° over normal.

Only one day August 7th in 1970 did we reach the 100° mark. During the same month in 1969 there were three days of 100° and one of 102° for the highest.

January 9th was our coldest day with 8°. On the same day at Mt. Ida it was 0°. Twenty-three days of the 31 in January the night temperature was 32° or lower. February with 20 days of 32° or lower was a close runnerup.

As our farmers and many others can attest 1970 was a much more favorable crop year from rainfall standpoint than 1969. The year ended with 3.85 inches above normal with fairly good distribution throughout the growing season. Total precipitation in 1970 was 12.7 inches more than in 1969 when we had only 42.83 inches or 8.85 inches below normal.

March was not the wettest month in relation to normal, however, the farmers had little opportunity to prepare their land due to the fact it rained 17 days and they were well distributed throughout the month.

During the months of July, August and September 1970 a total of 15.30 inches was recorded compared to 3.93 inches for the same period in 1969.

We at the Experiment Station are very grateful for a good crop year even though we can recall a few days during August that it was not too comfortable.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

LEAVE THE DRESSING TO US, POP

Dear Helen:
What do you do with a father who insists on helping you pick out your clothes, and has terrible taste?

He took me shopping last Saturday and I came home with the worst junk—which he calls "sensible." So on Monday, my mother and I returned most of the stuff and now Dad is all hurt, but Helen, I'm not going to look weird. Even Mom says I have good taste.

I don't tell him how to drive, so why does he have to tell me how to dress? Does your husband pick out your daughter's clothes, Helen? —FATHERED BOTHERED

Dear F. B.:
No, but he groans a lot. —H.
NOTE TO "FATHER-BOTHERED'S": FATHER: Leave the dressing to us, Pop. Yours not to reason why, yours but to pay and sigh. —H.

Dear Helen:
My girl friend doesn't have a mother and I don't have a father.

Her Dad gives me the third degree every time I call, and gets me so uncomfortable I can't talk to her when he finally lets her on the phone—because I know he's listening to every word.

I asked her to call me, but we've run into a problem because my mother thinks girls who call boys are "forward," so she bawls her out.

Neither of us are allowed to date, although I am 16 and she is 15. Her dad doesn't trust girls and my mother doesn't trust boys. Don't suggest that they meet because they already have—at PTA where if one likes an idea the other is bound to hate it.

Maybe as they say, love will find a way, but so far, it's only during our half-hour lunch period and five minutes after school before we catch different buses.

How can we make our folks see that they should stay cool? —KIRK S.

Dear Kirk:
Maybe by playing it cagey. When HER father third-degrees you, let it drop that your mother has already admired his forthright stand at PTA. When YOUR mother answers her call, let your girl friend say, "Oh, Mrs. S. it's nice talking with someone my Dad likes so much."

Get 'em a little shook, you see, and they might become more human—with you and each other. Good luck! —H.

Dear Helen:
Our school is on half-day sessions because there's no money in the budget. We can't have any clubs. We don't have a school newspaper or class plays. We even run out of towels in the wash rooms. There aren't enough teachers or courses we need to get into college.

But the worst: This year we aren't getting a year book. What's school without an "annual" that will bring back memories for ever after? I even like to read my parents' old year books.

You probably won't print this letter since adults always side with the Establishment against kids, but isn't there some way we could have these wonderful things back? —WISHFUL STUDENT

Dear Student:
Adults don't always "side with the Establishment against kids." I'm sure many of your parents hate these cutbacks as much as you do, but they didn't work hard enough to get the school bonds passed. Now that they've seen the price their children pay when voters reject tax hikes, maybe they'll change things next year. Meanwhile, you kids can help educate townspeople with letters to your local paper, "save our school" rallies, and much talk at home—especially about the college courses you'll be missing. —H.

Congress No Longer Assured of Big Vote

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives in the new Congress no longer are assured of the luxury of an off-the-record vote for amendments emasculating a bill—and then an impressive-looking record vote for the measure.

Of the changes approved in congressional rules and customs changes that fell well short of what the more impatient reformers wanted—this is most important, in the opinion of most members polled.

Assaults on the seniority system for advancement to power in Congress have produced only minor dents in that venerable institution, but reformers vow to keep trying.

However, they don't rate their immediate chances high, after the drubbings they took on other proposals and on efforts to elect an outspoken liberal House majority leader.

They have done better in prying apart the secrecy curtains on some House procedures, joining the Senate which has been more open.

In the House, the closest to a public vote on amendments was the teller procedure. Members were counted, but no record was made of how each voted.

Under the new rule, any 20 members may demand a record teller vote, with the names recorded.

Committees still may hold their sessions for shaping legislation behind closed doors. But now they must make public roll calls that show how each member voted.

Seniority is a matter of party custom rather than a part of Senate and House rules, so that issue must be fought out in Democratic and Republican caucuses.

The caucuses pick the chairmen and ranking minority members and name the other committee members in order, traditionally following recommendations of their respective committees on committees—which, in turn, have been going by seniority.

House Republicans, who are in the minority and therefore can't pick chairmen but only the less important ranking members, instituted a rule guaranteeing a secret vote on each selection.

Democrats have not gone so far, but they did provide that any 10 members may demand a separate vote on a chairman.

A group of House liberals has promised to test the new procedure by trying to unseat Rep. John L. O'Neill, D-S.C., as chairman of the District of Columbia Committee. They accused him of high-handedness in running the committee that largely rules the predominantly black capital city.

Seniority matters are still up for debate in Senate party caucuses.

House Democrats have struck another glancing blow at seniority by providing no member may be chairman of more than one legislative subcommittee—thus spreading out the prizes. Members also may not sit on more than one major committee.

Proposals to require committee chairmen to step down at age 70, or after four terms as chairman, are still alive in the House.

But, as Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., put it, "We took such a licking on other things, I don't Principal Bobby Whitmarsh has just presented Barbara Fuller a medal in recognition of her designation as 1971 Bausch-Lomb Award recipient.

Barbara Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fuller of Route One, Hope, has been named the 1971 Bausch-Lomb Award recipient.

Principal Bobby Whitmarsh presented her with a medal which is given annually to "the outstanding senior in the field of science" in Hope High School. Selection is made by the faculty members of the Hope High School science department.

Barbara can now compete for science scholarships at University of Rochester if she desires. Her present plans, however, include enrollment at Hendrix College in September. She is a semi-finalist in the National Merit Scholarship program. She is Student Council treasurer and National Honor Society president. Last summer she represented Hope High School at Girls State.

Additional Bad News for Smokers

By G.C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Surgeon General's latest report on tobacco and health bears more ill-tidings for cigarette smokers plus a new word of caution about cancer for pipe and cigar users.

Recent research shows convincingly that cigarette smoking causes lung disease—cancer, bronchitis and emphysema—and provides new evidence of harm to the heart and during pregnancy, according to the Public Health Service's 500-page report to Congress.

As he has before, Horace R. R. Kornegay, president of the Tobacco Institute, argued against the report's conclusions saying much research was ignored that cast doubt on the link between smoking and disease.

The report, signed by Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld, found pipe and cigar smokers were much less likely to develop heart and lung disease. But compared to nonsmokers they, like cigarette smokers, face an increased risk from cancer of the throat the report said.

Cigarette smokers are from six to 10 times more likely to die of cancer involving the larynx than non smokers, the surgeon general said, while the figure for pipe and cigar users is a three-to-seven-fold increase in risk.

Most pipe and cigar smokers do not inhale. But many draw the smoke as far down as the larynx.

Pipe—but not cigar—smokers also have a greater chance than nonsmokers of developing cancer of the lip and mouth, the 500-page report said.

Research published over the past 18 months confirms the earlier belief that "cigarette smoking is a significant risk factor contributing to the development of coronary heart disease," the Public Health service found.

It mentioned in particular new evidence that nicotine and carbon monoxide in cigarette know how much life is left in this.

The Senate faces renewal of the perennial debate on changing its own particular institution the filibuster.

But the antifilibuster move itself seems certain to encounter a filibuster possibly within the next few days.

Despite their disappointments, reformers are not wholly dejected.

A spokesman for the Democratic Study Group, the organization of House liberals, put it this way:

"Change in the House is a matter of inches. In terms of what we wanted we have a long way to go. But in terms of where we started from we have come a long way."

smoke cause hardening of the arteries that can lead to heart attacks and other blood vessel maladies.

The report also endorsed recent finding by British researchers that mothers who smoke are more likely to have miscarriages than nonsmokers.

"There is strong evidence to support the view that smoking mothers have a significantly greater number of unsuccessful pregnancies due to stillbirth and neonatal death as compared to nonsmoking mothers," it said.

The report is the latest of four supplementary attacks on smoking issued since 1964 when the Surgeon general first put the weight of the government behind the effort to persuade Americans that smoking is unhealthy.

Mine Blast May Bring Charges

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal authorities may seek civil and criminal penalties for the owners of a Kentucky coal mine where an explosion killed 38 men last month, it has been learned.

But strong federal action against mine operators is so rare the Bureau of Mines has been required to clear its moves not only with acting Secretary of the Interior Fred J. Russell, but with the White House as well, administration sources told the Associated Press.

Mines Bureau Director Elbert F. Osborn met with Russell late Tuesday, and the sources said Interior Department representatives would discuss the matter today with the Office of Management and Budget, a key White House satellite.

The explosion occurred Dec. 30 at Hyden, Ky., in twin mines opened last March by brothers Charles and Stanley Finley.

During nine months of operation, the mines were cited by federal inspectors for dozens of health and safety violations.

A Bureau of Mines investigation after the blast drew testimony indicating that primer cord—banned from the mines by law—may have been used inside the Finley mines, igniting coal dust which spread the explosion through the tunnels.

The bureau has completed its inquiry, but officials were still debating their next step late Tuesday.

Mine safety violations could bring large fines but it was learned officials were contemplating also some sort of criminal charges, possibly based on conflicting testimony given at the bureau's hearings.

The administration plans to announce its findings on the Hyden disaster Friday.

The first movie censorship measure was an ordinance adopted by Chicago in 1970, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica

Troopers Are Assigned to Legislature

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House and Senate have been assigned one state trooper each as a deterrent to any attempt to disrupt the current legislative session, according to State Police Director Ralph Scott.

Scott said Wednesday he made the decision to assign the troopers to the legislature because of incidents that had occurred at other state capitols, principally the bombing of the Louisiana capitol at Baton Rouge last year.

He said he did not take the action because of reports of impending trouble at the Capitol. He has received no such reports and does not anticipate trouble, Scott said.

He said, however, that he had been alarmed that last year a black militant had been able to walk undetected into the Capitol carrying a rifle.

"It points up to anybody that the security at the Capitol needed beefing up," Scott said.

Two troopers normally are assigned to the Capitol for security purposes and to handle traffic problems. The Highway Department also provides a man from its Weights and Standards Division.

Scott conferred with the chairman of the efficiency committees of both houses, Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock and Rep. W. F. Foster Sr. of England, before providing the two extra troopers at the beginning of the session. He said there had been no specific legislative request for the troopers.

"It's a form of prevention I felt was justified in the circumstances," Scott said.

Both troopers are equipped with a radio that puts them in contact with District A headquarters near the Capitol or the state headquarters farther away.

Scott also has placed three extra troopers at the governor's mansion, augmenting the three-man State Police contingent permanently assigned to the mansion and the governor.

One of the three additional troopers will be taken off the detail when a vacant civilian guard position is filled, Scott said. There is one civilian guard on duty at the mansion now.

Scott said the other two extra troopers will be reassigned and if the legislature authorizes the hiring of two additional civilian guards.

Peace Talks Not Good, Envoy Says

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Egypt's U.N. Ambassador Mohammed H. El-Zayyat says Israel's latest communication in the Middle East peace talks isn't "good news" to him.

The communication, presented Wednesday to U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring and presumably relayed when El-Zayyat met Jarring later in the day, was Israel's reply to Egypt's comments on peace proposals Israel made on Jan. 10.

El-Zayyat said his meeting with Jarring had not raised his hopes for a settlement, but he added: "The talks are continuing. I have no instructions to stop."

"When I am coming to these talks," he added, "we are trying to find progress ... I am looking for good news, and what I can tell you is I did not get good news."

Information on the Israeli reply were sketchy.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Teikoah would not even acknowledge there was a new statement from his government, saying his silence was "in line with our policy of quiet diplomacy in our discussions with Egypt and Jordan under Ambassador Jarring's auspices."

Informed U.N. sources said that in the Egyptian view the Israeli paper contained "no new elements." Sources in Jerusalem said it contended Egypt had ignored essential points in the original Israeli proposal and asked that Egypt reconsider those points.

One point in the Israeli plan, for example, said, "Peace must be expressed in a binding treaty." But there was no mention of a treaty either in the Egyptian reply transmitted to Jarring on Jan. 15 or in the Jordanian reply Jan. 18.

Israel is expected to reply to the Jordanian statement next week.

The Arabs have demanded that the first order of business be a timetable for Israeli withdrawal from territory occupied in the 1967 war. Israel has refused to set such a timetable until agreement is reached on definite and secure borders.

for the withdrawal of all Air Force units from South Vietnam by the end of 1972," said one source. "Hopefully 1973 will begin with no U.S. squadrons in Vietnam, if everything is on schedule. But advisers and technicians will remain. How many, I can't say now."

The sources also left open the possibility that even after all American squadrons are pulled out of Vietnam, the United States will continue to provide air support for its allies in Indochina from bases in Thailand and from aircraft carriers of the 7th Fleet.

The sources said up to 500 U.S. warplanes from the Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps are making daily raids on North Vietnamese troops and supply routes in Laos and Cambodia.

Some attacks are in direct support of South Vietnamese, Cambodian and Laotian troops fighting the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. But about 75 per cent of the raids are against enemy supply routes, depots and troops along the Ho Chi Minh trail through southern Laos.

The sources said the effectiveness of the campaign won't be known until May, when the current dry season ends. North Vietnam makes its big movement of troops and supplies southward during the dry season because the jungle roads and trails are much less passable in the monsoon season.

Withdrawal of all U.S. squadrons in the next two years depends on three factors, the sources said:

1. The effect the campaign against the Ho Chi Minh trail has in reducing North Vietnam's effectiveness to fight and to launch major offensives while U.S. forces are being withdrawn;
2. Some accommodation by the North Vietnamese in scaling down their activities;
3. Progress in the training and capabilities of the South Vietnamese air force.

Smallest Book

The smallest book in the world printed from movable type is "The Galileo," a Madama Cristina di Lorena, produced by the Salmin brothers of Padua, Italy, in 1896. The book was 207 pages, a portrait of Galileo as a frontispiece and is 3 1/2 inches high and 7 1/2 inches wide.

HOPE (ARK.) STAR, Printed by Offset CONNALLY

Connally was governor.

The Catholic organization allegedly victimized in the case was represented for a decade by Connally's law firm.

One solid sign the matter won't delay Connally's confirmation: Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., apparently has dropped an investigation of the former Navy secretary. Proxmire, who is not a committee member, planned to submit several questions for Connally but, aides said, does not expect to object to the nomination.

Sen. Wallace Bennett of Utah, ranking Republican on Finance, said he will question Connally about the stock case if no one else does.

The appointment has drawn more vociferous criticism for its political implications. The most commonly heard allegation is that Nixon's choice of the influential Texan was designed primarily to help win Texas for the Republican ticket in 1972, rather than for any Connally expertise in the money department. There has even been speculation Nixon might ask Connally to run for vice president in 1972 on the GOP ticket.

Connally would be Nixon's first Democratic cabinet member, replacing David Kennedy as Treasury secretary.

of 60 to 80 miles an hour scooped the snow into huge drifts.

Blizzard warnings remained in effect for the region east of Lake Ontario.

Near-blizzard conditions persisted in western Pennsylvania. One of the storm-related deaths was a Conneautville woman who was found in her automobile, buried to the roof near her home.

The storm claimed one other life in Pennsylvania, two in Michigan and one in Indiana.

Wind gusts up to 75 miles an hour and blowing snow brought a reduction of the normal 70-mile-an-hour speed limit on the Ohio Turnpike to 40 m.p.h. Wednesday.

Up to 2,000 travelers were stranded in motels and hotels across northern Ohio.

Schools were closed in many communities from Ohio to Vermont, and business slowed to a minimum in many others.

Snows ranging up to 2 feet deep and winds of 25 to 40 miles an hour, forced most schools in northern and central Vermont to close.

Travel warnings remained in effect overnight from northeastern Ohio through New Hampshire. Gale warnings flew on all the Great Lakes and along the Eastern Seaboard from Maine to North Carolina.

In contrast to the bitter winter weather in much of the eastern half of the nation, record late-January heat in Southern California brought thousands to the beaches. The temperature soared to 86 in downtown Los Angeles to give the city its warmest Jan. 27 since 1938.

An end to weeklong rains in the Pacific Northwest and an influx of cooler weather eased for the time being the threat of severe flooding in some western Washington areas.

Army Engineers warned, however, that a crest on the Chehalis River could cause serious flooding in the coastal city of Aberdeen if it met an expected high tide of 10.6 feet today.

The river, like many in the region, had been filled by runoff from seasonal rains and unusually heavy snow melting in the Cascades.

Trucks are called lorries in Great Britain.
